⁴Trustmark Registered Tree Care Company

There are currently three voluntary schemes in the UK which accredit the competence of tree care companies and arborists. The three schemes are each different and it is worth taking a few minutes to familiarise yourself with how each scheme works. The schemes are voluntary and there are competent arborists who choose not to participate in any of them.

Arboricultural Association Approved Contractors

The Arboricultural Association maintains a list of Approved Contractors that have been through a rigorous vetting programme run by the Association. Contractors are regularly assessed for their health and safety procedures, office and business practices and the quality of their tree work.

The Arboricultural Association expects very high standards which restrict the number of successful applicants. Because of the irreversible nature of all operations concerning tree care these standards are carefully maintained by regular reassessment of the contractors.

ISA Certified Arborists

The International Society of Arboriculture Certified Arborist programme seeks to assess the technical knowledge of individual arborists. Certified Arborists have passed an exam covering all aspects of tree care and are expected to maintain their knowledge up to date through continuous professional development.

Unlike the other schemes, which accredit companies, the ISA Certified Arborist scheme certifies individuals. Although Certified Arborists are competent tree specialists, the status says nothing about a company's business practices.

Trustmark Registered Tree Care Companies

Trustmark is a new scheme supported by Government, the building industry and consumer groups to help you find reliable and trustworthy trades' people. Trustmark registered companies will have had their technical skills, trading record and financial position checked by an Approved Scheme Operator and have signed up to a code of practise covering areas such as insurance, health and safety and customer care.

Other: There are other companies and individuals providing a professional service that choose not to be accredited.
